..Carmel Story..

BY DAISY BOSTICK

This is the beginning of a series of articles aiming to touch on the highlights of the CARMEL STORY. The writer has tried to be factual but there are so many interpretations of the incidents in Carmel's past and some of them so divergent that parts of the Carmel Story may often tempt Pine Cone readers to throw bricks at the writer. I suggest that the editor receive the blame, although she is in no way responsible for the facts here presented, but she is younger than I and more used to dodging missiles. However, let the bricks fall where they may! If these articles meet the approval of the readers, they will continue and we sincerely hope that those who can contribute facts and personal recollections relating to the Carmel Story will communicate the same to the editor or this writer.

CHAPTER I.

A soft quiet moonlit night in Carmel town. Lights were all out—cars gone home. And Ocean Avenue really looked a hundred feet wide just as it should be according to the maps. Pines silhouetted against the moon, shadows playing hide-and-seek with each other and softening up the buildings by obscuring their sharp contours.

On such a night I sauntered vaguely around with an idea that I might recapture some of the old thrill which I had on a similar expedition almost thirty years ago. There was a kaleidoscopic quality to the scene. The straight and simple lines of the Wilson building and Spencer's House of Cards could have fitted into any frontier town in the early mining days; the Village Book Shop and Derling's looked as if some good natured gnomes might pop out at any moment to thumb their noses at me; the newer and more modern buildings with their courts and patios were heavily shadowed excepting for an occasional burst of moonlight—all lent their own quaintness and witchery to the stage setting before me.

Suddenly time seemed to turn back more than a quarter of a century and ghostly presences were all around me. I felt no fear for they were happy cheerful ghosts although with a touch of wistfulness. They were the old buildings and they seemed to demand that I tell the tale of how they came to be built, who inhabited them and how they contributed to the early Carmel panorama.

And so I am going to try to sketch for you the almost forgotten story of the Carmel that was, of the simple little buildings and of the pioneers who built them and who still make Carmel their homes. There was no thought of any brand of architecture — no Spanish, no Colonial, no English nor French. Just HOUSES which blended with the setting and in which could be found good cheer and hospitality and simple pleasures. What though we had no electric light, no water heaters, no gas cooking stoves! We did have candles and fascinating old coal oil lamps and stoves, and hot water coils at the back of the fireplaces. On a social evening when we burned up the wood which we had pilfered from an adjoining lot the water in the coils became so hot that it was often necessary to draw some of it off in the kitchen sink to keep the pipes from exploding. And as a crowning treat and the greatest mark of hospitality to a favorite guest, we offered him or her a BATH.

There are many interesting stories—of how Pine Inn was built at the head of the Avenue and later moved to its present location—of how William Dummage shot a mountain lion on San Carlos a couple of blocks north of Ocean Avenue—of the Leidig's, Bob, Fred, Ben and Lawrence, pioneering a grocery store where

The Editor's Column

We know of no one better qualified to speak on the subject below than Dr. L. A. Williams, not because he is a school board member, but because for years it was his job to determine which California high schools should be accredited to the University of California, whether or not high school students were being prepared adequately for college work. His suggestions on how students may best prepare to meet the stiff competition offered by G-I students in colleges today should be invaluable to Carmel's high school students, 80 per cent of whom intend to go to college. —W.C.

An article about the University of California in the Saturday Evening Post for September 6, 1947, makes one point to which every man and woman with a child in high school who is preparing for college should give prayerful consideration. The point made is to the effect that since the appearance of GI's on the university campuses the competition for even passing marks (grades) has become keener than ever. These ex-soldiers with their maturity and their clearly defined purposes are out to make the most of their chances at a college education. They know the value of good records as stock in trade for obtaining a job and they let nothing stand in the way of their earning such records. The young freshmen just out of high school find these men and women tough customers to beat in the struggle for scholastic standing and scholastic honors.

For the next few years, surely; and for several years thereafter, probably, the college entrant fresh from high schools will run smack into this situation no matter whether the college chosen is U C or Siwash, one of the Big Ten or one of the unknown legion. The only defense such young collegians have is to learn in their high school years how difficult it is to make high marks against stiff competition. Performance in high school that is nothing less than

Edward Weston To Play Lead In New Documentary Film On Photography In The Sierra, Death Valley, The Coast

BY WHIT WELLMAN

Edward Weston, whose home in Carmel Highlands has become a Mecca for photographers, publishers, and artists, left this week to star in a film for the State Department. One of America's great photographers, Weston was accompanied by director-producer Willard Van Dyke and his assistants. Another member of their group is a young lady whose role will be that of a student of photography — as Weston explains his methods by a new series of pictures which he expects to prove "the best of his career".

Three sections will be featured: Death Valley, the California sea coast, the High Sierras . . . areas where Weston has already done some of his finest work. The tour will take about two months. Tentatively, the film's title is "The Photographer", but will doubtless be changed before it is released.

Transportation for the party includes a Ford station wagon, trailer with movie equipment, generator, lights, three motion picture cameras. They plan to sleep out, without tents, and so far the only domestic nomination is that of Weston — as chief coffee maker.

A part of the State Department's "Voice of America" program, stressing definite aspects of American life and art, this picture will be translated into 25 foreign languages, exhibited on a non-profit basis in some 50 countries, including Asia, South America and Europe. Within five years it will be seen by approximately 100,000,000 people.

The picture is the result of a suggestion made by Van Dyke to

Carmel, September 10, 1947

Mrs. Wilma Cook, Editor,
The Carmel Pine Cone.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

Tuesday was a glad historic day for California because 97 years ago this day, California was admitted to the Union. It was a tragic historic day for California, too, for yesterday giant earth-moving machines began crushing the ancient tules and grass of the oldest pasture land in continuous use in the State of California —the beautiful, wild margin land of the Carmel River lagoon. This striking feature of the Carmel scene, a rare bit of nature's handiwork, of outstanding historic and aesthetic value, is giving away to progress.

It seems tragic that the people of Carmel, those who live here, have their investments here and love the region, are not aroused to this sad situation. I've heard people speak of it, but none seems to be doing anything about it.

Please understand this is no criticism of those who are developing their land in keeping with the natural urge to make money. You can't pay taxes on land now and let it stand idle. So long as land is privately owned it must be turned to profitable use. But there must be some way of saving this lagoon region of the Carmel River. The destruction goes on now. As I write I hear the gas engine exhaust and clank of three great machines that are mashing down those tules and the old pasture grass.

Recently, we visited the Coast of Mendocino county and we dropped down a steep road to see "Russian Gulch State Park." Now this was a delightful place and I'm glad the people of California have decided to preserve it. But it does not have one fraction the historic, recreation, and aesthetic value that this wild lagoon land at the mouth of the Carmel River possesses.

The State of California has a fund for the saving of bits of California like this and will match money dollar for dollar. Aubry Drury is interested, I'm sure. The County of Monterey, also, must be interested. But it seems that the people of Carmel, also, will have to become interested and do something about it. Is there not some Carmel organization that can head up a movement to preserve this Carmel River lagoon in its original state?

Sincerely, Robert E. Jones.

Adult School Opens Here Monday Evening

The Carmel Adult School opens Monday evening, September 15, at Sunset School, with some of the old favorites on the list of classes and several new groups as well. The three new classes are in woodworking, handworked copper and pottery by Ernest Calley, who has brought back from his year's study in Mexico many ideas that will assist his students; in microbiology by Enid Larson, the new biology teacher at the high school; and in body techniques by the dancing instructor, Ruth Allerhand. Miss Allerhand has studied rhythmic gymnastics with Dalcroze and Wigman as well as many other masters in Europe and has taught for many years and directed big community drama projects in New York and Philadelphia.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Pine Cone there is a complete list of the courses to be offered, all of which are open to the public without charge.

The land belongs to Jimmy Doud. He is scraping earth off the horse pasture south of the Mission Ranch and dumping it in the low, brush covered area in the vicinity of 16th street, where he intends to establish home sites. It is not his intention to disturb the tule area at the mouth of the river, he says. He would like to see it set aside as a duck refuge, and would sell it at a reasonable price to the County for that purpose.

The State has a fund that it has made available to the County for purchase of shore-line tracts to be set aside for recreational areas, if the County will put up matching funds. This area and a strip along the coast to Point Lobos was given No. 2 priority by the County for purchase several years ago. But interest in putting up funds for even half of the cost seems to have steadily waning since the first burst of enthusiasm on the part of the supervisors, so that when we talked to Supervisor Andrew Jacobsen a month ago he held out little hope for action for a number of years to come. If

S.F. French Colony To Attend Plaque Dedication Here

Sunday, September 14, the formal dedication of the bronze plaque, which commemorates the 161st anniversary of the landing at Monterey of Jean Francois de Galaup, Comte de la Perouse, in 1786, will take place at Carmel Mission. Several hundred members of 35 Franco-American organizations of San Francisco and the Bay area, as well as the California Historical Society will arrive in Carmel for the ceremonies.

The dedication will take place at 10:15 a.m. in the gardens of Carmel Mission, when the plaque will be unveiled by Raoul Bertrand, Consul General of France in San Francisco. Most Reverend A. J. Willinger, D. D., Co-adjutor Bishop of Monterey-Fresno will make the speech of acceptance. This ceremony will be followed by Solemn High Mass, presided

FOSSIL WHALE AT H. S.

When some mysterious bones were turned up by the workmen who are levelling a portion of the high school grounds Wednesday, the find was rushed to the Hopkins Marine Station for identification. It fell to Nathan Riser, one of the students, to decide that the bones were from the skeleton of a fossil whale. He had to make this report on the basis of one vertebra, since the rest of the fossil had not been well preserved. Mr. Riser states that fossil whales have frequently turned up in the quarry in Carmel Valley, in miocene shale, which is prolific with fossils but not a good preservative.

Sporting NOTES

LIONS PROVE THEY ARE REAL CHAMPS

There is no longer any doubt in the minds of softball followers that the Lions Club is the deserving champion of the 1947 Adult League Season. Last Friday night, the Lions accepted the challenge of the doubting Wilder & Jones team and put the damper on the plumbers by a 10 to 9 count, in an extra inning game. As the game was played it was one of the most exciting contests of the entire season, and it took all the wily strategy possessed by the Lions to pull them through for a victory. At the end of the regulation 7 innings the score was tied, 9 to 9 and it looked like the Lions had met their match. However, the plumbers failed to dent the platter in their half of the 8th, while the Lions took advantage of two walks, a sacrifice and a single to shove the winning run over the plate.

Waldo Hicks, steady Lion catcher, kept the plumber base-runners pretty well glued to the bags after he showed his rifle arm early in the game and picked off a couple would-be base stealers. Waldo has sparked the Lion infield all season and has contributed several clutch hits with runners on the paths. Kelly Taylor provided the potent punch in the Lion attack by hitting a home run and a triple, the latter with the bags bulging. Kelley's triple came when the Lions were three runs behind and the situation desperate.

Wilder & Jones	9	11	2
Lions Club	10	9	2

Batteries: W & J — G. DeAmaral, B. Bell and Saunders. Lions—Clemens and Hicks.

CARMEL LASSIES DROP 12 to 5 SLUGFEST TO WATSONVILLE

In their final outing of the 1947 season, the Carmel Girls Softball team met too much experience in the Watsonville femmes and came out on the short end of a 12-5 count. The visitors fielded a team with lots of softball savvy and their confident play indicated there were no green hands in the lineup. The Carmel lassies made a ball game of it until the fourth frame when the apple pickers exploded for 6 markers to sew up the contest. All the Carmel players deserve an A for their never-say-die spirit, as they continued to play the game for all it was worth, even though 7 runs behind.

Playing for Carmel were: Carol Petty, Barbara Pullman, Jerry Faye, June Updike, Carol Smith, Carol Templeman, Caryl Hill, Dicki Douglas, Ann Tanous, Joan Saunders, and Ann Douglas.

CCAL GRID NOTES

King football came roaring back into the sport picture during the past week when eight of the CCAL schools issued grid togs to record turnouts. All the coaches reported that their supply rooms were depleted of football gear, and that emergency calls are going out for more practice suits. With the opening of league hostilities just a month away, coaches will have to hustle to get their charges boiled down to integrated team units.

In the A division of the CCAL, Monterey is being touted as the team to beat. The Toreadors are three deep in all positions and have a wealth of experienced material on hand. A fine lightweight team from last season plus a junior varsity which played a six game schedule gives Hal Youngman a powerful hand in any league. Watsonville, in its second year of football following the war recess, is rated the dark horse of the league and the one most likely to upset the Youngman applecart. Emmett Geiser, veteran Watsonville mentor, had a rough and bruising team at the tail end of last season and they will all be back this year. Salinas, 1946 champions, loses many of last year's star performers, but should develop a dangerous aggregation from their lightweight and junior varsity holdovers. Hollister, under a new coach, John Hanna (Santa Clara), will be hard pressed to compete with the larger schools in the A division. The Haybalers lost all their scat backs from last year, and their lightweight team wasn't too powerful. The Cardinals from Santa Cruz will miss Johnson, their stellar back of last season, and must rely on untried hands for the most part. Coach Baer has some pretty sturdy lightweights moving up to the varsity and they may be just the ticket to make his pee-dinger offense click.

Competition in the B division of the CCAL resolves itself around the big question! Who's going to beat King City? Jules Langlo, Mustang mentor, considers his charges so powerful that he is matching them with Santa Barbara for their opening game. Santa Barbara is always one of the top teams in the State and boasts a line averaging nearly 200 pounds. If King City topples Santa Barbara the rest of the teams in the league will probably run off and hide. The Mustangs have six veterans returning from their championship team of last year and their reserves were considered the best in the league. If the Pacific Grove Breakers can come up with some backs to match their fine line they could go all the way. Marty Baskin is sold on his forward wall and considers them capable of holding their own with any high school line. Led by an All-League guard, Jerry Nash, the Breaker front line will average better than 185 pounds, and that's big enough. Pacific Grove opens their season at Gilroy on September 26th. Gonzales, with a complete team left over from last season and a brand new coach could provide the surprise package. Their backfield talent was the best in the league last year and with a little more help up front they are capable of giving any team an uneasy night. Jim Beacom, speedy left half, is probably the best runner in the B division and he has lots of help from Yates and Stevens. The Carmel Padres will have to hustle to overcome the handicap of starting school a week later than the other schools in the league. With their initial game on September 19th (Monterey Junior Varsity,) the Padres have reported for a few special sessions in order to get in the required three weeks practice before playing a game. Carmel will field an exceptionally light team, but most of the players will have the benefit of a year's playing experience.

1947 should be a banner year for football in the CCAL and pigskin fans are champing at the bit to see some of the red hot games which are sure to develop.

Dr. Blaylock Tells Mineral Society Of Lompoc Deposits

At the meeting of the Monterey Bay Mineral Society, Salinas Y.M.C.A. on Monday evening, Dr. Kenneth Blaylock gave a talk on the diatomaceous earth deposit at Lompoc, California, which is now controlled by the Johns-Mansville Co. He not only discussed the myriad commercial uses that have been found for the material taken from the deposit, as an insulator, catalytic agent and filter, but he described the microscopic vegetable organisms whose accumulation for a period of 50,000 centuries formed the deposit.

Other speakers on the program were V. E. Schoonover and Dan Williams, who demonstrated two methods of making arrowheads, Pal Clark, who described the various types of modern and prehistoric arrowheads, W. O. Eddy, who discussed the gem of the month, sapphire, C. E. Spaulding, who told of the work the Navy is doing in searching for oil reserves in the northern part of Alaska, and Sgt. L. D. Lippincott, who showed the documentary film, Operations Crossroads, the Atomic Bombing tests at Bikini.

Newly elected officers, introduced by president A. W. Flippin are: Dr. Kenneth Blaylock, vice president; Mrs. Louise H. Fraser, secretary; G. H. Nelson, treasurer; Mrs. Earl Roe, federation director; T. G. Emmons, advisor and H. M. Samualson, D. E. Perry and H. W. Powers, directors. Committee chairmen are: Milo Daughters, program; William Peall, refreshments; Frederick Merlow, membership; Mrs. A. W. Flippin, reception; V. E. Schoonover, raffle and display; V. L. Fraser, field trip; W. O. Eddy, gem of the month.

Mariners Return After Rounding Coast "Cape Horn"

Kent Clark and Lock Van Bibber returned early this week from a seven weeks' cruise to the waters of southern California on Clark's 30 foot sloop, the Swallow. They struck heavy weather going down and report that the coast of California is "treacherous and rough" with winds that blow with the same force and velocity they do around Cape Horn. They managed to weather the storms, however, and got as far south as the Santa Barbara Islands, Santa Cruz Island and Catalina where they had a fine time swimming and fishing for tuna.

Clark said that the coast south of Big Sur and Pfeiffer's Point is exceedingly steep with big cliffs and deep water near shore, so that it was possible to travel quite close to the coast, but beyond San Simeon they had to go farther out owing to shallower water.

Lock van Bibber is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Van Bibber, who own the Carmel Cottage Court, and Kent Clark is vacationing at his home in Carmel after spending several years in the Merchant Marine.

Mary Hunter

The life of Mary Young Hunter, which has now come to a gentle close, is one of which it is difficult to write without seeming to overstate her many accomplishments, and distinguished connections. By nature she was sensitive and retiring, and yet by her quiet dignity and charm she was always surrounded with the atmosphere of nobility to which she belonged.

Born in Napier, New England, in 1872, as Mary Towgood, she went on a sailing vessel at the age of nine to England where she lived until she went to school in Lausanne, Switzerland.

As a young girl her great talents for painting became evident and she studied in Italy, as well as in the Royal Academy Schools where she distinguished herself by winning four medals. She became an exhibitor in the Royal Academy in 1900, when she showed a Dante and Beatrice picture called "The Denial" and also a second painting called "The Duke's High Dame."

In 1899, she married John Young Hunter, the well known English Painter whose work hangs in many of the famous galleries of England and the Continent. Together they went to Italy where they occupied a studio in Florence, visiting and painting in Perugia, Assisi, Siena and the famous art centers of the old world. They influenced and inspired each other and their work became established in the proudest tradition of the times. Both were portrait painters primarily, but both were leaders in the new Pre-Raphaelitism of the day. Poetry and fantasy went into their pictures, but never did they depart from wholesomeness and sincerity. John Young Hunter still lives and works in New Mexico.

Both Mary and John Young Hunter came of famous families and they had a wide circle of distinguished friends and relatives. Mary Young Hunter was a lifelong friend of the Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, youngest sister of King Edward. Among the many beautiful children she painted were the son of Sir Arthur McKenzie, the daughters of Lord and Lady Londonderry, the son of Lord and Lady Castlereagh, Mary and Catherine Pillsbury, Henry McKnight, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pinchot, the daughter of Jean Webster and Blanchette Hooker now Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, III. She also painted Sumner Welles at the age of three. These portraits are all vibrant with the delicate yet vital technique of one who looked through to the essence of childhood and painted what she saw. One of the most appealing of the child-portraits is her last work, still unfinished, the portrait of her grand-daughter Marcia Kuster. In this picture there is a luminous, pearl and silver quality almost of another world.

In 1920 Mary Young Hunter learned the rare and difficult technique of Gesso painting, the medium of the Early Italian Primitives handed down by Cennini, and she accomplished many beautiful works in this richly-sheened low-relief. It is here that her love of fantasy and mysticism became visible poetry. Some lovely child-portraits also belong to this period, among them the portrait of her first grand-child, Shim, who was so beloved by her, and who was indeed the child of her spirit. The book she wrote, and illustrated, for him remains still in manuscript. She survived Shim by exactly seven years to the day.

Mary Young Hunter came to Carmel in 1924 and for the past two years has lived at her home in Carmel Valley among the beautiful surroundings which she loved. The windows of her studio look out through the great oaks across a slope of pale-gold grass to the towering blue hills which seem to come almost within reaching-distance. It is fitting that the beautiful girl whom we see depicted in one of John Young Hunter's most famous portraits, should have lived the closing years of her life in a place so attuned to the poetic landscape of her spirit.

Mary Young Hunter leaves her daughter Gabrielle, Mrs. Edward Kuster of Carmel, her two grandchildren, Colin and Marcia Kuster, two sisters, Ethel and Stephanie Towgood, a nephew, Richard Pumphrey in England, and other relatives in New Zealand.

Paul's Mortuary made the arrangements and services were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove, the Rev. Alfred Seccombe of All Saints' Church officiating. —D.H.

PARISH YOUTH GROUP

The first fall meeting of the Parish Youth Group of All Saints' Church will be held in the Parish House on Sunday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. During the meeting, a light supper will be served. Young people attending Carmel High School or other high schools on the Peninsula are invited to join.

Wayfarer League Discusses Greater Youth Program

How to finance an expanding youth-program, and especially how to find the space to accommodate the youth activities, now that the church will have a paid secretary —Miss Fletcher— to direct the program, these questions occupied most of the time of the Wayfarer Church League at its early fall meeting last Monday evening. Miss Fletcher has had wide experience in conducting young people's activities in other places, and for the past few years has given her free time to such work in the church here. With more time for the work, she can be of great service to the activities of the youth.

The problem of space for the expansion remains, and the members of the church discussed it from many angles, agreeing that increased financial support is necessary, and further, while developing a long-range program, the present need for a temporary recreation hall must in some measure be met. High school students who were present added their pleas for some suitable place that is large enough for their activities.

Outstanding in the evening's reports were the descriptions of their attendance at the three summer conferences at Monte Toyon, participated in by junior, junior high, and senior high school students respectively. Nancy Watson of the senior group served as counselor at camp for the junior group, and she presented Bonnie Vandevoort to tell about the enjoyment and appreciation experienced by the younger members. Becky Bell, counselor for the junior high school delegates, introduced Shatzi Heron, who briefly told of the conference program, especially the candle-lighting service in the closing meeting. Speaking for the seniors were the counselors for the juniors and Landis Crosby, Joy Westcott, and Harry Watson. Landis pointed out the conference effect in teaching young people "to play together, worship together, and live together," through which they "received a spirit enabling them to face the problems in the world." All the young people emphasized the beauty and inspiration in the final communion service at the outdoor chapel on the hilltop, the culmination of the program of each conference.

Opening the League meeting as presiding officer, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, spoke with enthusiasm of its position as a community church and the service it can render in promoting unity and a brotherly spirit. He asked that the regulation which makes the pastor also the president of the League be changed, making that a truly elective office as are the others, for, he said, "This is your church, the laymen's church, and I am here to serve your program." Later in the meeting Howard E. Timbers introduced an amendment to the constitution providing for this change, to be voted on at the next meeting. Reports were given by the church treasurer, E. K. Neroda, Durbin Sayers for the executive committee, Mr. Timbers for the trustees, William H. Hamilton for the Sunday School, making a strong appeal for more teachers, Mrs. Carmalita Benson for the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Louise Grigsby for the World Friendship Circle and the Carmel Missionary Society, Dr. Olive Swezy for the Wayfarer Circle, and Mrs. D. E. Nixon for the making of bandages for the leper mission and of small dresses for children in leper families in mission fields.

The League then tackled the problem of financing the year's work, with the need to bring home to every member the importance of adequate support which will make possible adoption of a definite budget providing for every type of activity that will promote the religious education program with its necessary social accompaniment.

Dear Wilma:

Please refer this to the I Dare You to Print This editor.

Headlines in the Pine Cone have been referring to me as Dr. Mitchell.

Wilma, my friends is boobing me. Please lay off the handle. I ain't no DR. I'm only a MASTER.

Cordially,

Honest Stuart Mitchell,
Superintendent of Schools

Dear Honest Stuart Mitchell, M.A.

It happened while I was on vacation. Aside from this blunder, which is undoubtedly a subconscious expression of admiration, awe and respect, the three issues of the Pine Cone put out during my absence by Beth Ingels and our talented staff were better than if I'd been around interfering.

Carmel-by-the-Sea
Sept. 9, 1947

Dear Wilma Cook:

As I rushed down to the beach the other evening to get a full view of the blazing sunset, I envied those fortunate Carmelites whose western windows provide them a box seat in Nature's great arena when she puts on her glorious autumnal shows at sunset.

It takes a Walt Whitman adequately to "cover" such a stupendous performance as she staged that evening. In A Prairie Sunset, Whitman's description is superb. First comes the enumeration of luminous colors assembled for the scene. "Shot gold" heads the list. How perfectly those two little words describe the dazzling brilliance of clouds mottled with vibrant gold. He continues: "Shot gold, maroon, violet, dazzling silver, emerald, fawn."

Then he sounds the very depths of Nature's marshalling all her forces for the production of the awe-inspiring spectacle. "Nature's multiform power consigned for once to color."

In the end comes Night with her darkening shadows to claim dominion over the arching skies. A struggle ensues in which the poet sees the radiant clouds "fighting the shadows to the last."

I am quoting the poem here knowing it will be an inspiration to all Pine Cone readers who are sensitive to the great emotional appeal of color.

"Shot gold, maroon and violet, dazzling silver, emerald, fawn,
The earth's whole amplitude and
Nature's multiform power consigned for once to color.
The light, the general air possessed by them—colors till now unknown,
No limit, confine—not the Western sky—alone—the high meridian,
North, South, all,
Pure luminous color fighting the silent shadows to the last.

Sincerely,

—Flora Hartwell.

Editor:—

As a fire menace, this small, elusive lucifer is no angel! He's equally as guilty, if not more so, than the smoldering cigarette butt when cast off in a careless manner. A short time ago, I saw one tossed to a carpetted hotel floor. It continued to burn until I extinguished the flame. Again one evening while indulging in a game of California skill, better known as draw poker, one of the players of a sudden leaped to his feet. I had a quick intimation he'd discovered a hot-hand, but it was only his coat pocket burning. As he turned the lining inside out, I espied a tell-tale burnt part of one of the "Close the Cover Before You Strike the Little Imps." Let's be sure to quench either of the demons before discarding.

consistently a student's best is the only kind of preparation with which to meet these shock troops on anything like an equal basis.

The whole matter is not one of how many A's and B's a student gets in high school. The one and only criterion is whether or not this boy or this girl is doing his or her level best every day in every school activity. If any student is capable of doing superior and outstanding work and does not perform in this manner that student does not deserve more than a passing grade. Such a principle holds even when the student is doing the best work of anyone in his high school class. "Getting A's and B's" is not enough! "Doing my level best" is the only measure of high school work—for the college preparatory student, at any rate. (It might not be too bad if such policies were applied to non-college preparatory students, as well.)

It is every teacher's part to see to it that no student receives a superior mark if that student does not do what is for him, or her, a superior quality of work. It is no kindness to a student to assign false values to achievement. The student who can, but does not, has no claim on approval for doing less than he can. College professors give no credit for "effort". Their judgment is based wholly upon end-products. The teaching of that fact to prospective college students is one of the hardest jobs the teacher has to do. To learn that fact is one of the best lessons a prospective college student can master. The Great Teacher of all time founded the practice with the dictum, "By their fruits ye shall know them." If teachers are to prepare students for college they must prepare them to be judged by results and not in terms of effort or intent. Those results are expressed in terms of a great deal of work superlatively well done.

The obligation of the parent does not come in checking to see if the youngster is getting as many A's and B"'s as the youngster next door. Parental obligation lies in exercising eternal vigilance to see that their own youngster "every day and in every way" is doing better and better, working on the school job at top capacity.

This is one of many situations in life where "comparisons are odious". The single basis of judgment is the youngster's own ability and stamina. The get-by attitude, the doing-as-well-as-the-other-fellows kind of measuring stick is as outmoded as the model-T or as bathing suits with skirts and sleeves. College preparatory students who throughout their high school years, day in and day out, are content with only top performance acquire a habit for their college years which gives them a real fighting chance in the competition for satisfactory marks. Nothing less than that will do the job! Strange as it seems, the youngster who learns how to compete with himself is the toughest kind of competitor for his peers to meet.

Old Timers Miss Big Sur Setting In "Deep Valley"

Up from the Big Sur at the invitation of Frank Nash, manager of Carmel Theatre, to attend the premiere showing of Dan Totheroh's Deep Valley last Sunday night were a number of old-timers whose fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers settled on the coast in early days.

Among those present were Mrs. John Pfeiffer, widow of John Pfeiffer who once owned Big Sur State Park, with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Ewoldsen; Mrs. Steve Patterson, daughter of John Sousa who settled at Garapatta Creek in the '70s; Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Grimes of Palo Colorado with their daughter, Mary; and Mr. and Mrs. William Post of Big Sur. Other members of the Sousa clan attending the premiere were Shirley Sousa, grand-daughter of John Sousa, Jess Draper, a grandson, and Marilyn Draper, a great-grand-daughter. Mrs. Corbett Grimes is the grand-daughter of Gabriel Dani who settled at Lucia in early days.

Dan Totheroh, author of Deep Valley, was an honored guest and so was Jean Nigulesco, Warner Brothers director who came up from Hollywood especially to attend the premiere. In Totheroh's party were Mrs. Connie Flavin, Mrs. Ruth Marion McElroy, Mrs. Marion Todd, and Clayton Neill, all of Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Jordan of San Francisco and Miss Barbara Jenkins of Pebble Beach who was accompanied by Campbell Ross from England.

As the huge crowd filed out of the theatre when the picture was over, Dan Totheroh and as many of the old-timers as Frank Nash could muster were asked to remain in the foyer to be interviewed on KDON. Totheroh, who saw Deep Valley for the first time on Sunday night, seemed pleased with the Warner Brothers production of his dramatic novel and revealed the fact that he is working on another story to be published in the spring whose locale is found in the San Joaquin Valley. Mrs. Corbett Grimes, her daughter Mary Grimes, Mrs. Steve Patterson and Mrs. Leo Cummings were interviewed both as to their reactions to the picture and old days on the coast.

Most of the Big Sur people were disappointed to discover that Warner Brothers had shot Deep Valley at Big Bear Lake in southern California and they searched in vain for a familiar redwood tree or typical coast mountain. Pine trees, squirrels, glacial type boulders and a coast-line reminiscent of La Jolla made Deep Valley ring of a very different clime than the coast south of Carmel. People who had read the book were disappointed at the lack of a forest-fire.

Nevertheless, everyone enjoyed the picture with its stirring drama about the love of a lonely, stammering girl (played by Ida Lupino) for a convict who had escaped from the prison camp during the days when the highway was being built.—Rosalind Sharpe.

Enid Larsen To Teach Microbiology For Adult School

A new course in the Adult School beginning September 15 is on the subject of microbiology, to be given by Enid Larsen, who was previously zoology instructor at San Francisco Junior College, and who last year taught marine biology in Pacific Grove. She will lecture on the organisms of the microscopic world and will show specimens magnified and thrown upon the screen with a microprojector. The laboratory work will be designed for the amateur who wants to develop microscopy as a hobby.

Charles Dawson, principal of the adult school, stated that the wide interest in the study of freshwater green algae, protozoa, worms, crustaceans, etc., which has been shown on the Peninsula during the last two years necessitated the opening of such a course here.

Big engines... long trains mean lower cost to you!

But union leaders want "half-trains"-double crews!

Big locomotives are built to do a big job in the big country which is America—a big job in peacetime as in wartime. They are built to pull long trains.

Long freight trains can handle more goods at less cost—to you—than short trains.

Long trains mean fewer trains—fewer chances for accidents—fewer interruptions to traffic.

But a few railroad union leaders oppose long trains—among their current 44 demands for changes in rules is one limiting the length of freight trains to 57 average cars. Why do they demand this?

For "safety," they say. But is it?

Government figures show definitely that long trains mean greater safety to railroad employes and public alike.

Then, if safety is not the real reason—what is the reason behind this demand?

It is to make more jobs which are not needed—to get more pay! This "made work" would be sheer waste. Think of big, modern locomotives using only half their power.

For this waste, you—the public—would have to pay. Higher costs mean a lower standard of living for everybody. Nobody wants that!

Here's the record...

In the quarter century... 1921-1946...

Average length of freight trains has gone up	39%
Average speed of freight trains has gone up	39%
The rate of injuries to railroad employes has gone down	60%
Average wages paid railroad workers have gone up	84%
Price of railroad materials and supplies has gone up	58%
Railroad taxes have gone up	76%
But the average charge by railroads for hauling a ton of freight one mile has gone down	23%

Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to remind all applicants for the new training class for the Gray Lady corps to be sure to call at Chapter headquarters on Tuesday morning, September 16, between 10 and 12 o'clock, to interview Mrs. Jarvis, Chairman of Gray Lady corps.

Ernest Calley Back From Studying Art Of Mexican Pottery

Ernest Calley, who next week resumes his pottery classes at the Sunset School under the sponsorship of the Carmel Adult School, has returned from a sabbatical spent in Mexico, where he made the acquaintance of several families of potters in Tzintzuntsan, the old Tarascon capitol. Where a whole family works at the red ware for household purposes, the simple kiln is in the yard, fired with wood. Each kiln load is taken to the nearest village and sold from the sidewalks. Mr. Calley also visited Puebla and Tlaquepaque where the larger potteries do casting with kick wheels, and he watched the making of some famous Talavera tiles.

"My new classes will take up the elementary use of copper tools, as well as pottery, and woodworking," Mr. Calley said. "We'll do forming, planishing, piercing, soldering and designing. In the pottery class there will be coil building, casting and jiggering. Now that the school has a new kiln, larger pieces can be accommodated, and you can even experiment with glazes and their application to the various clays. Those attending the woodworking class do simple carving, make furniture or turn wood plates on the lathe."

Susan Wall has recently returned from San Francisco and has rented part of the Varda Studio in New Monterey, sharing it with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brennan.

Dr. E. O. Sisson's Semantic Classes Start On Monday

Dr. Edward Octavius Sisson, the first man in the world ever to inaugurate a class in education at a university, would be unable to get a teaching credential because he has never been a student in such a class — but Carmel prefers him as a Forum lecturer anyway. Monday, September 15, he will begin his series of six lectures on semantics at 7:30 p.m., in the lunch room of Sunset School. Each Monday and Wednesday for three weeks he will give a one-hour lecture and then invite discussion from those attending the course. The subjects he will cover follow: What is Semantics? What do Words Mean? Thought and Language. Truth and Falsehood. How the proposition Works, and Communication.

Dr. Sisson's talks well be particularly interesting to those who have studied the theories of Count Alfred Korczibski, for he differs from the principles outlined in the book, General Semantics, which has heretofore been accepted as the foundation of semantics.

TO COLLEGE AT MONTEREY

Ah what is so rare as sleeping late in the morning! This year a number of Carmel boys and girls are going to school at the new Junior College at Monterey, and owing to over-crowded conditions at the high school where the classes are being held, they attend lectures from 4 until 10 at night.

Among those going to the Monterey Peninsula College are George McElroy, Bob Rissell, Bob Weer, Mickey Appleton, Mary McElroy, Joe Gall and Bob Hendricks. But, it's a hard life without any 8 o'clocks!

Lannenstocks Back, Discuss Conditions In Lima And Stockholm

Gustav and Lucille Lannestock got back early this week from their trip to South America and the Scandinavian countries, with many an interesting tale to tell, and one of the highlights of their trip was an expedition up to the Arctic Circle to see the midnight sun.

They spent the winter in South America, mainly in Lima, and in Santiago. Peru they found one of the most interesting countries in South America, but owing to the political upsets "it isn't very comfortable or very safe, like setting on top of a volcano." Chile, which seemingly has a more stable government, was much more comfortable and they were able to go on treks into the country which they had not dared to do in Peru. Buenes Aires, Lucille says, is very much like Italy in 1933 and '34 with inflation and the people happy and prosperous.

They sailed for Stockholm in the early spring, and Gustav had a wonderful time visiting his relatives whom he hadn't seen for eighteen years and he was in Sweden for his father's 78th birthday. Sweden had changed surprisingly little, he found, since he had left there in 1929.

Lucille who had never visited Sweden before was particularly impressed by Stockholm, which she declares the most beautiful city in Europe. It shines with cleanliness, she says, such as one doesn't find anywhere else in Europe. There are no cigarette butts or litter on the streets, and the sidewalks are so clean one could eat on them.

The Lannestocks also travelled through Norway and Denmark and were struck by the fact that everyone was happy, everyone was smilling in these once-occupied countries. "The people are so happy to be free again that nothing else seems to matter," Lucille remarked. Although there is still rationing in Sweden, there is none in either Norway, or Denmark, and tourists can travel through the country and get plenty to eat.

They left Sweden a month ago, and picked up their new car in Detroit before driving to California. They had a wonderful time, but they say "There's no place we saw on our trip that we would exchange for Carmel," and Lucille was even happy to see the fog drifting in from the sea down at Carmel Point.

Literature Classes Start On Sept. 22-23

The Adult School class in Current Literature which has been conducted by Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte for the last two years will be resumed this fall, beginning September 23, one week later than the opening of the other adult school classes, due to Mrs. Clairmonte's absence from Carmel on vacation. Hoyland Bettinger will address the class on the subject of writing for television September 23 at 7:30 p. m., in Room 11, and discussion will be held following his talk, One week later, on September 30 at the same time and place, Franklin Brewer (known to Gertrude Stein's readers as Brewsie) will speak on the life and works of Sylvia Townsend Warner, the English novelist with whom he is personally acquainted.

The short story class this year will be held on Monday evenings instead of Thursdays as previously, and will have its first meeting September 22. This year all men and women attending the class will be required to present samples of their creative writing at some time during the term, and the techniques discussed will be the basis for application.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS

Mrs. Leota Tucker is opening her class in photography at the Adult School at 7:30 Monday, September 15, in the music room of Sunset School, with special showing of summer work accomplished by last year's students. Dark room procedures will be given on Thursday evenings. Everyone interested in learning camera technique is welcome to enroll in either class or both.

Church Women Hear About Youth Center

"That Youth May Live More Fully is the theme of the Youth Center," Mr. T. F. Watson, recreational director of the Center in Seaside, told the members of the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women at the meeting last Friday at the Seaside Methodist Church. The Center is a cooperative project supported by adults but all suggestions come from the young people. Supported by the Community Chest, it opened June 9, using a small building across from the public school. Attendance during June was 785, and during August, 1659. Afternoons the younger boys and girls use the facilities including the school yard for outdoor play, and in the evening young people from 13 to 19 years attend. Average daily attendance in August was 54.

Moving pictures on Wednesday evenings brought 87 to 105 youths to the Center. Hollywood gives a special rate, good pictures selected from a catalogue by the Center are shown by Mr. Roger Lee of Pacific Grove, with admission fees of 14 or 25 cents according to age. Mr. Watson expressed appreciation to the Carmel library for discarded books donated to the Center, which are kept in the building for two weeks and then given to boys and girls who wish them. Games and suitable books and magazines are needed, and after September 21 Mr. Watson will be glad to arrange for such donations to be called for. He and Mrs. Watson are now on their vacation. He spoke to the women at the box luncheon which opened the day's meeting.

Mrs. Munroe Warner of Oakland spoke on child protection and problems of delinquency, at the afternoon meeting.

Devotions for the meeting were given by Mrs. Louise Grigsby, who read the inspiring message written by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, which she had broadcast earlier in the day over KDON. Mrs. Ramsey Benson, president of CCW, presided at the luncheon and conducted the program.

DISCS OVER AMERICA

The most amazing event in history is the appearance of unexplained discs over America. Their explanation is necessary to every Man and Woman in this country.

The amazing explanation involves not only the discs alone . . . but it answers the great and most potent of mysteries,—

Why do anthropoid apes sit spellbound before two crossed sticks?

Why do children draw an arc one third of the way up a sheet of paper when confronted with the idea of death?

What is the meaning of the twenty-eight fires that struck at the exact center of the American population?

The answer to these questions is the most important information you have ever received. Send one dollar now for your copy of the survey. "Discs Over America."

The business meeting will follow a luncheon which begins at one o'clock, and will have the state president, Mrs. Samuel May of Berkeley, as guest speaker. The 1:00 o'clock local bus reaches the Santa Lucia corner at 1:05. Reservations for the luncheon must be made with Mrs. Bruce Spencer or Mrs. L. O. Kellogg not later than Monday.

At this meeting members will be asked to select the neighborhood sections in which they will meet. There will be two sections in Carmel, meeting the first and third Wednesdays, and the first and third Thursdays of the month; one in Carmel Valley on the second and fourth Wednesdays, and one in Monterey on the second and fourth Thursdays. It is hoped that an evening group may also be organized. A general meeting will be held only once in two months. The first study to be taken up will be taxes. Mrs. Howard Clark is resource chairman of this study and will visit all groups, taking reference lists of books and articles, together with questions suggested by the study kit from the national League.

The second subject, beginning after two months on taxes, will be legislative processes, with Mrs. Frances Ballard as resource chairman, followed by international relations, with Mrs. Ferdinand Haasis, and economic policies with Mrs. Eben Whittlesey. Homes for the group meetings have been offered by Mrs. Haasis, Mrs. N. M. Leoni, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Miss Agnes Williston, and Mrs. Charles Simpson. Definite assignment of meeting places will be made at the luncheon meeting.

Announcement was made to the executive board last week of a League area conference to be held in Los Angeles on October 28 and 29, devoted to the discussion of problems of international trade. Also announced was the tour of the Freedom Train that is scheduled to visit all states in the country, with exhibits of documents which played a part in our history.

is the story of an American family of another time and place, but it is just as much the story of you or me or the members of your family. To read it is to prolong your life backwards for a hundred years and to bring to today a strangely quickened feeling for the people about you the great human emotions, and the course of great ambitions.

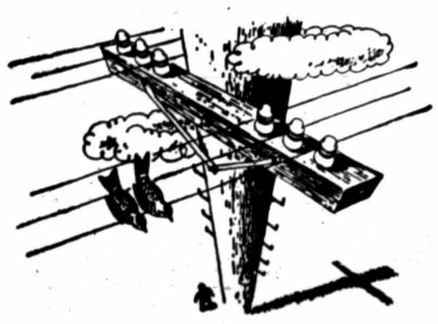
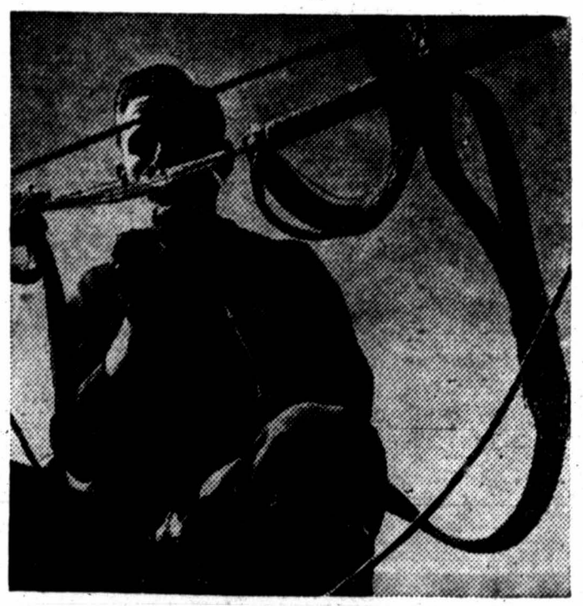
How to climb a telephone pole



One move at a time is the best advice, any telephone lineman will tell you. While you're moving your feet upward and setting your gaffs, concentrate on the job of climbing safely. After reaching the working level, place your safety strap in position around the pole and make sure it is properly engaged with the body belt. Then lean back in your safety belt and go to work.

But it takes practice . . . and here's where the telephone linemen get it—at one of our 20 special training schools on the Coast. In two years, 5,000 new craftsmen, nearly all of them war veterans, have learned the ABC's of pole climbing at these schools . . . more men than we've ever trained before in a similar period.



They've joined 20,000 plant telephone men in the big job of catching up with the West's tremendous growth. More than a million miles of wire will be placed this year as a part of that job . . . a new record. We're going ahead as rapidly as we can to bring you an expanding, improving telephone service.

New Working Dollars . . . Millions of new dollars needed to build buildings and buy new equipment to meet the public demand for more telephones and more service do not come from telephone bills. New dollars come from people who are willing to put their savings into the business. We must earn enough to attract these new working dollars.

Have You Read . . . ?

BY EDWARD O. SISSON

Basic English and Its Uses, by I. A. Richards; (W. W. Norton, 1943,)

Here is a book in two different languages; yet you could read it through and never know where one left off and the other began, except that the author sometimes tells you. I am a bit of a linguist, but over and over I passed from one to the other without knowing it. It is true both languages are English, one the ordinary or garden variety, and the other Basic English. All the words in Basic are English, and to be found in the smallest pocket dictionary; but of the words in a full-sized English dictionary, less than one out of 200 is found in the "Basic" vocabulary. For Basic has only 850 words; and, believe it or not, Basic gets along with only eighteen verbs.

This sounds like a miracle, yet when one examines it closely, it is as plain as a pike-staff and as practical as a spade or a pocket-knife. It is based upon years of patient study and analysis of language in general and of English in particular. The inventors or designers of Basic English are Professor C. K. Ogden and the author of this book, Professor Richards, who have been definitely at work on it for more than twenty-five years, and long before that were engaged in linguistic research. Of course they have had many collaborators, all over the world, and have made use of the vast amount of knowledge concerning language which is available to the student.

Let me offer one example of the sort of things they found out: they took 100,000 words of ordinary printed English, and found that ten words made up one quarter of the total 100,000. These ten hard-working words are all tiny, from one to four letters: the, of, and, to, a, in, that, it, is, I. Do you see what this means? These ten words in a very true sense cover one quarter of the English language as a going concern; a foreigner who has learned them has in a true sense, learned one-fourth of English. Of course nobody can learn these ten words by themselves; they are all "operation" words, the kind that make the language go; they "operate" only in connection with other words. Basic has one hundred operation words; it would not surprise me if these hundred made up half of ordinary printed or spoken English; they sprinkle every page from top to bottom, and keep the discourse moving.

This is a mere hint of the vast amount of investigation and experimentation that lies behind Basic. For more than fifty years linguists and educators have been busy finding out which words out of the immense array in the dictionaries really do the work of talking and writing. The inquiries have covered all the important types of words, nouns, verbs, adjectives, and the rest, and the results have been both surprising and most helpful. The authors of Basic have made full use of all these investigations, including their own.

Basic is by no means a vision or a mere experiment: already the New Testament has been turned successfully into Basic; also the Republic of Plato, Shaw's Arms and the Man, Shakespeare's Julius Caesar, and many other classics.

Books have been written in Basic on science, history, technology, health. It is being used in schools at points all over the world, and is proving itself invaluable in teaching English to non-English-speakers everywhere. Strange as it may seem, the study and use of Basic has a profound significance for the English-speaking person too, and is already influencing the teaching of English in schools. I recommend it earnestly to all teachers of English; no less to teachers of foreign language, for the principles of Basic apply with equal force to all languages, or at least to all our western culture languages, such as French, Spanish, German. I will go further and recommend it to all teachers of all subjects, for they all use language in their teaching, and Basic throws in-

BIRD IN THE BUSH

Here is a moment answering all desire:
A laughing conversation with my friends,
The comfort of my own hearth's leaping fire,
My work accepted. But my ear attends
The whistle of a train remote; my tongue
Regrets forgotten seasoning; my limbs
Reach to a bough from which man never swung;
I long for unknown lakes where no one swims.

Here are my friends, but I would rather remember
The contents of a room whose door is locked.
My eyes delight at distance-haunted meadows
And quavers now my heart because December
Is far from June. Reality is mocked
And I have missed my moment for these shadows.

—GLENN CLAIRMONTE.

MY CARMEL

There are no words to put this picture
Into verse - or poetry;
Perhaps a painter is more fitted
To capture blueness, and white sand,
To etch the lonely twisted cypress
Leaning gently toward the sea—
Or the rocks in rugged grandeur
Brown sides gleaming in the spray,
And the sea, a long blue carpet
Stretching toward a sunset sky
Where the faint line of horizon
Merges softly in the mist
Of purple evening shadows
And faint rose of day's farewell.
No, there are no words to capture
Such beauty as lies here.
Ask the lonely twisted cypress
Looking always out to sea,
And your answer will be silence—
Greatest tribute, after all.

—MARGARET ALICE SCAGGS.

MORNING FOG

It is as though we look and see familiar objects through a screen—
all edges smoothed
by fog come soundlessly.

Moonstone skies are wisps of light that swirl from cobweb-eaves. Roof appears half roof half sky, so blurred to sight.

Where garden path ran yesterday the silver surface of a curve lies shadowless
then disappears in gray . . .

Familiar objects through a screen:
inclusive shape of shrub and tree and path and house where separateness had been.

—GERTRUDE MAY LUTZ.

Days Before Yesterday

The first Carmel Circus seemed to be such a success that two years later the residents took it upon themselves to try again. Some of the paragraphs which appeared in the Pine Cone for July 18, 1925, will revive memories for many of the present day residents.

"Perry Newberry is busy gathering his aggreation of freaks for the circus side shows. Any lions or tigers roaming around loose in the streets will be rounded up and put into captivity in Marshall Englund's garage. Strong men are wrestling and boxing on the beach out where the winds blow keen and cool, getting ready for the athletic events. The soldiers at the Presidio are jumping hurdles and racing their chariots in anticipation of the time when they will proudly charge around the circus ring inside of the big tent.

"It has been suggested that Harry Leon Wilson, our biggest literary lion, ride at the head of the parade on a float to be furnished by his wife, Mrs. Helen . . .

"Arthur Shand will be on exhibit telling Bedtime Stories over the Ray-deyoe. Most everybody would be willing to give him his ten cents not to hear him. Judge Hecker will be close at hand and at the close of each story will fine him.

"If the Board of Trustees should get a tent and hold one of their regular meetings, anyboy'd pay well to get in.

"Austin James will give an exhibition of living statuary. Andy Jacobsen has bought a book on Art and thinks he'd like to try his hand at posing for Rodin's Thinker. Fred Bechdolt has been invited to be The Dying Gladiator, and Lynn Hodges, Tom Mix' only rival, is working hard at The End of the Trail.

"With Ernest Schweninger and Harrison Godwin in charge of the clown brigade, things sure should be funny. Steve Glassel, Sr., will be ringmaster. He will wear his white gloves. A request has been sent to George Kegg to come down and conduct his three-shell game.

"If there is anybody now living in Carmel who isn't in the circus, kindly let Mr. Newberry know at once. He has one place yet vacant—that of the Fat Lady. Everybody around here is built slender. Maybe some tourist can qualify."

On July 25, 1925, the Pine Cone promised that the Circus would have a bobbed-hair version of Lady Godiva, and that there would be rampant lions, couchant tigers and educated bears. For the tourist who arrives in Carmel and asks, "Where are the writers and artists? Do you have a special district for them? Are they segregated?" Perry Newberry was guaranteeing to pull all the talented citizens out of their hiding places and put them on exhibit.

"The parade," said the Pine Cone, "will form in front of Byron Newell's and will march down Ocean Avenue to Pine Inn and pass in review before John Jordan. It he's satisfied with it, they will march back on the other side of the street and the circus will then happen . . .

"Thomas Reardon will neglect Carmel's baths and kitchen sinks for the day and will enact his favorite role—that of the front legs of the elephant. They're going to make it a sway-back elephant by getting Richard Hoagland to play the back legs. William Silva, the artist, is designing a batiked elephant hide.

"The sawdust is being collected by Fred Leidig. We saw Barney Segal behind the bars in the bank the other day and thought how well he'd look in an animal cage, with Charlie Berkey feeding him peanuts from the outside. Mayor Bill Kibbler insists on wearing his Mystic Shrine regalia, but Marie Gordon says the smell of the mothballs will make the horses sneeze."

When the big day arrived, August 1, 1925, the headlines screamed: "Whatever Your Business Today, if it Interferes with the Carmel Circus, Attend the Circus."

Have You Read...?

valuable light on the use of language in general. For Basic probes into the very anatomy and operation of words in communicating thought. Take the matter of verbs: the verb is the most complicated and difficult element in language; consider the labor-saving in cutting down from many thousands to eighteen. If such a thing had been proposed to scholars it would have been scoffed at as an impossibility; I am sure I should have felt so. But it has been done; that is the only way to prove that it is not impossible. To the student of language this single point in Basic is a veritable eye-opener.

The 850 words of Basic are printed on pp. 30-31 in this book, together with the rules for its expansion and use. I have had a lot of fun mulling over this exhibit, and must say I know of no other equal amount of print so full of significance concerning the momentous subject of communication by words. First come the 100 operation words already mentioned, with the eighteen verbs at the top; then come 25 prepositions; the other 57 are a miscellaneous lot, including pronouns—only four—adverbs, conjunctions, etc. Then come 600 things and 150 qualities; these are the nouns and adjectives of ordinary grammar.

Now the admission must be made that the resources of Basic are not quite so limited as might seem thus far: the verbs can be conjugated, the pronouns declined, the nouns made plural; suffixes are allowed in limited number: -er, -ing, -ed, -ly. Numbers, not being true words at all, nor peculiar to any language, are included, also the calendar, weights and measures, etc. Even so, the 850 words do really make up the actual body of the language.

Finally, in my concern to provide some idea of what Basic English actually is, I have passed by the most vital point, the one with which Dr. Richards opens and stresses most earnestly: that Basic English is the answer to the momentous question of a world language that might bring the nations to understand each other. This is the theme of the first chapter. It is clear that these men who labored to create Basic English had the peace and welfare of humanity as their deepest motive. For my own part I am thoroughly convinced that Basic English is by far the most promising proposal thus far for this great end. So it seems to me that everyone who is concerned for mutual understanding among peoples and world-wide unity—and who is not?—will do well to take interest in Basic English.

McKee-Beckington Wedding

Miss Patricia McKee, the daughter of Captain Ernest Wheeler McKee, U.S.N. (Ret.), and Mrs. McKee of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club was married at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon to Lt. Herbert Lyford Beckington, U.S. Marine Corps, at All Saints' Episcopal Church. The church was decorated with masses of white chrysanthemums, and Rev. Alfred B. Seccombe performed the impressive ceremony.

The bride wore ivory satin with a long train, and a Spanish mantilla of antique lace over her hair, carrying a matching fan interwoven with orchids and bouvardias.

Miss Dorro Converse of Santa Paula was maid-of-honor and wore a gown of chartreuse faille. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Stranton of San Francisco and Mrs. Garfield Christopher of Woodland Hills, both appearing in dresses of green faille and carrying bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Elizabeth Snite, the eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Edmond M. Sullivan of Carmel, was dressed in citrus yellow and carried a sprightly nosegay of yellow roses.

Mrs. McKee, the bride's mother, wore an afternoon dress of brown satin with a corsage of pink begonias on her shoulder and a green veiled hat decorated with pink roses.

Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner was best man and Captain Archer Allen and Mr. Edmond M. Sullivan of Carmel were the ushers.

Originally it had been planned that three of Lieutenant Beckington's shipmates and brother officers should function as best man and ushers, but at the last minute their leave was cancelled when the top admiral decided on an inspection of their ship, the U.S.S. Helena, tied up at San Diego. The bridegroom was allowed to come to the wedding, without best man or ushers, and his leave was reduced to one week instead of the two which had been given originally.

The bride's father, Captain McKee, called on two of his classmates of Naval Academy days, now retired and living in Carmel, for assistance. Admiral Richmond K. Turner came to the rescue as best man, and Captain Archer Allen and Mr. Edmond M. Sullivan stepped into the breach as emergency ushers.

Following the ceremony, there was a huge reception at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club attended by more than 100 guests, at which champagne, sandwiches, coffee and hors d'oeuvres were served, as well as the four-tiered wedding cake.

Plans for a honeymoon were abandoned owing to the reduction of Lt. Beckington's leave, and the young couple left for San Diego following the reception where they had reservations at El Cortez Hotel. Lt. Beckington was obliged to report for duty on the U.S.S. Helena at 7 o'clock on Monday morning.

The new Mrs. Beckington wore a going away outfit of gray flannel with a fur coat, and will remain in San Diego as long as the U.S.S. Helena is based there.

Mrs. Beckington went to school in China, then to Chadwick School in Rolling Hills, California, and attended the Connecticut College for Women for two years. She graduated from Stanford University a year ago, and is an honorary member of the local Army Daughters chapter.

Lieutenant Beckington is the son of Mr. R. E. Beckington, attorney, and Mrs. Beckington of Rockford, Illinois, and he graduated from the Citadel in Charleston, S. Carolina, before going overseas with the Marine Corps during the war. He is now a regular Marine Corps officer.

Admiral and Mrs. Richmond K. Turner gave a luncheon at Del Monte Lodge for members of the wedding party on Friday, and there was a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Sullivan Friday afternoon following the wedding rehearsal at the church.

Mitzi Eaton Married

Mitzi Eaton blew down from Seattle for a week's visit in Carmel accompanied by her husband, John Hair, whom she met during the war and married early this spring. Known here for her activities in little theatre work, Mitzi wrote radio plays which were broadcast over KDON and operated a puppet theatre in Carmel Woods with her brother, John Eaton.

During the war, Mitzi joined the WAC and was sent to Officer's training school from which she emerged a full-fledged shave-tail, first assigned to public relations work in a recruiting office, and later stationed in Chicago where she was in charge of Army publicity releases for screen, press and radio. She was one of the three Army people in the country who handled OWI releases and she worked closely with the OWI throughout the war.

At present living in Seattle with her husband, Mrs. Hair hopes to get back to play-writing again soon.

Angwin reported on arrangements thus far completed for the presentation of five screen lectures to be given during the fall and spring, and it was agreed to give seat preference to paid-up members. Membership cards were available, $1.50 a year, and the cost of the series of lectures was reported to be $2.40 for adults, $1.20 for those under 18. Single tickets will be sold at 75c if there are any seats available after the beginning of the series.

It was decided that the business meeting will be held the second Friday evening of each month, and that field trips hereafter will take place on Saturdays once a month. The next field trip will be held Saturday, September 20, at Pt. Lobos State Reservation, the members and their friends meeting at the gateway at 8:00 a.m. and bringing lunch. Laidlaw Williams will be the leader for the day.

When you look at the suits in THE BANDBOX on Ocean Avenue, just oceanward off San Carlos, bearing the Perfect-Fit label, you know those suits were made by tailors long experienced in tailoring for men. You'll find a classic and simple Perfect-Fit suit with a somewhat squarely cut jacket that rests most beautifully on the shoulders. This suit is in pure wool gabardine in basic colors. For more dressed-up appearances there is at THE BANDBOX a suit in the finest gabardine made, with softly rounded shoulders and neatness at the waist, silver buttons and soft colors, the nicest of which is blue.

HOWELL ARMOR, San Pedro Lane sculptor in Carmel Woods, is cutting, hewing and polishing away to complete his exhibit for the Marin County Art and Garden Show. From his workshop came a three foot statue of Saint Francis for a San Anselmo garden, as well as a statue of Father Serra for some Carmel garden. The Armor animals, turtles, owls and rabbits are appealing creatures who will tenant your patio most peaceably. One small owl in cherrywood is peeping quietly with a fixed gaze from a twenty inch cherrywood log. The Armor studio is open to visitors and a call to 1450-M will prepare the way for you.

"If the name is Knox, the hat is right", is a slogan which happens to be true. Knox hatters know their hats, and there is a something in the style, material and workmanship of a Knox hat that makes you put on assurance when you put on a hat from Knox, which leads us to THE CINDERELLA SHOP on Ocean where you'll find the newest Knox hats —many of them in beautiful frost white which will be worn most bewitchingly this fall and winter. For suits there's a dove of a little bowler in frost white, decked out with a black wing and quill. For suits and dresses too there's a beaver felt Knox hat, also in frost white, with a trim of black satin and gold sequins.

In FORTIER'S on Ocean and Dolores are brushes. For end-of-summer hair, or hair matted by too ardent golfing, there is nothing so good as brushing, a great deal of brushing. If you wish to be bright and modern, FORTIER'S has beautiful brushes in lucite and nylon, shining like jewels. These are good, but even better are the brushes with natural bristles made by the Ogilvie Sisters, who specialize in hair-care. Lucite and nylon not excepted, these Ogilvie brushes are most beautiful, with a business-like efficient air about them. They are made to brush hair well, and that they do.

You'll find your life neatly divided up into occasions for greeting cards at BILL'S BOOK AND CARD SHOP on Dolores at Sixth. Each group of cards is labelled with snippets from magazines, and every possible contingency is cared for. When your niece, nephew, grandson or cousin or sister-in-law has a birthday a card from BILL'S says what must be said. There's a double feature card, too, to be sent to someone who has a birthday on your birthday and happens to be sick in the hospital —but it doesn't say which hospital. Of course, nicest of all are the money holders, which may correctly be sent with no message at all.

The last of the summer fruits and vegetables mix with the first of the winter produce in the PRODUCE DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN on Dolores at Eighth to make a mosaic of purple and white cabbage, yellow and white banana and Hubbard squash, bordered with cauliflower and Brussel sprouts. Last peaches are coming in from Oregon as the last of Carmel Valley's corn is harvested. Melons are with us yet, and grapes are sweet and ripe. The ladyfinger, Concord and Thompson seedless grapes are prime, but for flavor, there is no surpassing the muscat grape with a real flavor beyond mere sweetness.

LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP on Alvarado Street in Monterey (this week LIAL'S of Carmel is temporarily closed for window installation) has several interesting new albums which look out of the general and much repeated run of records. The Hargail albums—a new name in records to us—offer Leonard Bernstein's sonata for clarinet and piano with Bernstein at the piano and David Oppenheim playing clarinet. There's an album of American folk songs, too, sung by the Margaret Dodd Singers and including the famous tune "Sourwood Mountain." Paul Matthen may be heard in another album of songs by Hugo Wolf. In other words, you'll find some unusual recordings at LIAL'S, as well as absolutely standard Tschaikowsky.

For 41 cents you may buy a large and excellent seafood cocktail at the seafood bar in THE PACIFIC MUTUAL FISH COMPANY, well toward the end of Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Over your cocktail—shrimps are good in the middle of the morning—contemplate the fish for supper. PACIFIC MUTUAL offers fresh rock cod, filleted or whole, fresh fillet of sole, scallops, tuna, and salmon for broiling, baking, steaming or frying, and shrimp—large Louisiana ones called prawns which are cooked fresh every day at PACIFIC MUTUAL. There are, by the way, few delicacies to surpass a fish such as salmon baked with spice and well-bedded down on parsley.

In THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP on Alvarado Street in Monterey, we found some beautiful angora sweaters made by Catalina. These are not the long haired shaggy angora which marks anyone who comes within range of them, but soft, closely knit sweaters of great warmth and beauty in white and blue. Catalina coat sweaters close down the front with silver buttons and bear designs of either love birds or flowers in soft colors, grey, blue, green and rose.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Substance" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, September 14. The Golden Text is taken from Romans: "The invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead" (1:20.)

The following citations are included in the sermon:

I Peter: "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away: But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you" (1:24, 25).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The myraid forms of mortal thought, made manifest as matter, are not more distinct nor real to the material senses than are the Soul-created forms to spiritual sense, which cognizes Life as permanent. Undisturbed amid the jarring testimony of the material senses, Science, still enthroned, is unfolding to mortals the immutable, harmonious, divine Principle, — is unfolding Life and the universe, ever present and eternal" (p. 306).

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

"Waiting, Speaking, Listening" will be Dr. K. Fillmore Gray's sermon theme at the two identical morning services at the Church of the Wayfarer, on Sunday at 9:30 and 11 o'clock. Rally Day will be observed in the Church School, with classes for Juniors and Junior High pupils at 9:30 a. m., and kindergarten and primary children at 11 a. m.

The Youth Fellowship meeting at 6 p. m. will be under the direction of the new president, Joan McGrath.

Do You Have Herbs To Send To The Fair?

Miriam Birdseye, who las spring gave talks on growing and using culinary herbs before several local groups, and had an herb exhibit at the Annual Garden show of the Carmel Woman's Club, has been asked to exhibit a small herb garden in the lath house at the Monterey County Fair, September 25-28.

To round out the assortment of the culinary and fragrant herbs that Miss Birdseye has available for the exhibit, she would like to obtain the loan or gift of good specimens of the following: golden apple mint, curly mint, clary sage, lemon verbena, lemon balm, costmary, bee balm (Monarda didyma) lovage, germander, English and spike lavender, hyssop and different varieties of wormwood (artemisia).

If any garden enthusiasts would like to help enrich the herb garden exhibit with one or more of these plants, please call Miriam Birdseye, 1296-J or drop a card to Box 36, Carmel.

The lath house exhibitions are under the direction of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club of which Mrs. George A. Moller of Carmel is President and Mrs. Fred G. Strong of Carmel is secretary. Mrs. F. L. Knudsen of Monterey is chairman of the planning committee for the lath exhibits. Floyd Dillon, landscape architect, Carmel, is cooperating with Miss Birdseye in planning the layout.

A Lot Of Kids Survive First Day Of School

The girls, decked out in white oxfords freshly cleaned and in new sweaters and skirts, the boys with their ears washed—for this one day anyway — showed up 295 strong for the opening of school at Carmel high 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Of these 42 were eighth graders. And almost everybody arrived home again at 4 o'clock the same afternoon, hardly aged at all from the ordeal.

Last year there was a total registration of 299 for the first day, with a few more eighth graders, 51, and few less high school students, 248, making not enough difference between this year and last to make any difference to people who like to play around with statistics, but a considerable difference to people like Kump and Co. who make surveys and predict steady year by year enrollment increases.

Sunset enrollment shows pretty much of a sameness in appearance, also. First day's registration was 354. Last year's first day totalled 345. The end of the first month last year was 375 and it is expected the same total will be reached this year.

Edward Weston To Play Lead In New Documentary Film

the State Department six months ago, that Weston would best exemplify the art of American photography. Previous informative films had included Toscanini and Georgia O'Keefe.

Weston's work has been well known for many years. His "California and the West", "The Cats of Wildcat Hill", "Edward Weston" (published in a limited edition by Merle Armitage) are classics in their field. A new book, "Fifty Edward Weston Prints" is in preparation.

Director Willard Van Dyke, who, with two partners, owns the Affiliated Film Producers, Inc., of New York, is an independent producer of informational films. Van Dyke worked in Carmel with Weston as a still photographer in 1929; he is best known, perhaps, for his work with the Office of War Information during the war, when he produced "The River", "The City", and some 40 other similar pictures. He will be assisted by cameraman Benjamin Doniger, and unit manager Paul Lenihan. Doniger has worked with Van Dyke upon cultural pictures for some time. Lenihan, a Marine pilot in the South Pacific is learning all phases of production and technique, to enable him eventually to write better films. Black and white 35 mm movie film will be used, the same as shown in all theatres.

Van Dyke is happy over this latest assignment, since his organization has made such informational pictures as "International Ice Patrol", "Education of an American Doctor" and "Puerto Rico". One of his crews is now operating in New Mexico, another in Mexico.

His Weston picture will be distributed at cost via American Embassies and Consulates throughout the world, and through regular American channels. For China and South America the State Department has provided mobile units which visit districts of small populations, and these units are scheduled for a year ahead.

The Weston film will probably be the last of its kind, since Congress has denied additional funds for the purpose. Indeed, it would have been impossible, had not some reserve been available from the Department's funds of last year.

Among the coast territory to be visited will be Point Lobos and Oceano. The latter location has what are recognized as the "most beautiful dunes in America", and sand so soft that a cameraman wades in it to his knees.

Jones' Letter . . .

local people concur in this attitude, before the arrival of the dim day in the future when the County Supervisors are ready to make the purchase, the land will be either turned into city building lots and beach side concessions, or have increased in price to such an extent that its purchase will be out of the question.

It seems to us that every month of delay makes more inevitable the destruction of this land as a natural area. It is time for local people to put the necessary pressure on the supervisors—to demand that they act. Carmel Unincorporated, organized especially to protect the interests of the residents of that area, is the logical organization to take the initiative.

—Wilma Cook.

PENINSULA MALE CHORUS

The first practice of the Peninsula Male Chorus was held last night, Sept. 10, at Sunset School. Under the direction of Director John Farr some informal singing was done after the business meeting was concluded.

All old members and any men interested in singing are invited to the next meeting at Carmel High School, Sept. 17, at 7:30.

ORCHESTRA REHEARSAL

The first autumn meeting of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra under the joint direction of Clifford Anderson and Lorell McCann, will be held at the Carmel High School Music Room on Monday evening Sept. 15, at 7:30. All members of the orchestra who played with it last year have been contacted and are urged to appear for this first rehearsal.

Carmel Story . . .

Kip's now stands—of the loose board in front of Stella's Dry Goods Emporium which was a menace to night wanderers, and of how Stella used to sweep a friendly hen out of her store each morning, and of how the Board of Trustees passed an ordinance forbidding chickens to appear on the main streets—of the vicissitudes of the Postoffice—of the charming little weaving shop which was set cornerwise under the big pine tree at the junction of Ocean and Dolores where the CORNER CUPBOARD now stands—of how there evolved a garden and penthouse on top of the city—of the cottage which ran gaily up Ocean Avenue on an early morning—of the many buildings that were placed on trucks, moved to new locations, settled down and lived to tell their stories. And the Goold property which housed a hotel, a stage office, and a horseshoe court for those who found time hanging on their hands. Even the ghost of the old watering trough which stood where the Soldiers' Memorial now stands is still haunting me and trying to break through and have its story told.

Dear me! I must get these yarns out of my system so that I can again sleep o' nights.

First - - - but that will come next time.

TO LECTURE FOR A.W.V.S.

Senora Lelli will combine her lecture on "International Education"—with that of "Underground Work in Italy".

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Carmel Unified School Board of Trustees will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Board Room at the high school. At the special meeting held Friday morning to open bids for building the new science unit at the high school and completing the connecting corridors, Harold Geyer of Monterey was found to have low bid and was awarded the contract at $61,000.
